Preface

This report, Volume 6, No. 6, of the 1977 Census of Governments, presents information on the structure, employment, and financial transactions of certain types of local regional organizations.

The periodic census of governments is taken at 5-year intervals as required by law under Title 13, United States Code, Section 161. This 1977 census, similar to those taken since 1957, covers four major subject fields - governmental organization, taxable property values, public employment, and governmental finances.

Plans and specifications for this census were developed by the Governments Division in consultation with other offices and divisions of the Bureau, other Federal Government agencies, the Census Advisory Committee on State and Local Government Statistics, and with numerous other organizations and individuals concerned with the structure and administration of local government.

This report was prepared under the direct supervision of William C. Fanning, Chief of the Special Projects Branch with general supervision provided by Alan R. Jones, Assistant Division Chief for Special Governmental Statistics. David Nikkel was responsible for research and data review with assistance from John R. Kennedy, Betty Stark, Denise Lawson, and Barbara Hohn.

Ella Thomas, Chief of the special support staff, provided assistance in the examination and encoding of survey returns. Computer operations were planned and programmed by John Beall and carried out by the Computer Services Division.

The Publications Services Division provided advice and service in the preparation of copy for publication. Publication copy was prepared in part within the Governments Division, under the supervision of Corrine Davis. Helen D. Files also contributed to the planning of the publication copy.

The cooperation of the respondents who voluntarily provided the data for this report is gratefully acknowledged.

Introduction

This report is the result of a special survey conducted on the recommendation of data users and Census Bureau staff who participated in planning the 1977 Census of Governments. It presents, for the first time, information on the number, types, organizational characteristics, financial transactions, and employment and payrolls of selected multijurisdictional organizations that are closely associated with the governmental sector, but in the past have been excluded by definition from the Census Bureau's governmental statistics program.

Characteristics of Organizations Surveyed

Because this was a first-time inquiry, it was necessary to establish a set of preliminary criteria to identify those organizations that were appropriate to the survey. Based on initial research, three organizational attributes were used to select units for possible coverage namely, (1) that they possess governmental characteristics (e.g., creation by statute or other public act, public funding, and performance of government-like activities) but not be currently classified by Census as a government or as part of a government;¹ (2) that they be multijurisdictional—that is, composed of or serve more than one local jurisdiction; and (3) that they be involved predominantly with planning rather than direct delivery of public services.

The appropriateness of these initial criteria were tested through contact with Federal and State officials and in a pilot survey. The main modification resulting from these contacts was the expansion of the criterion that an organization be "predominantly involved in planning" to accommodate a significant number of organizations which met the other criteria but performed both planning and service functions. The application of these modified criteria in the development of the survey panel and throughout the conduct of the survey produced data for the following types of regional organizations:

General Purpose Organizations are primarily engaged in multijurisdictional planning, coordination, and policy discussion in order to promote intergovernmental cooperation, identify regional problems, and work toward the solution of those problems. They are involved in a variety of programs of areawide concern including programs related to employment, criminal justice, water quality, economic development, transportation, and human resources. They are usually established under State or local government auspices, are mainly comprised of local governments, and operate under the direction of elected officials of member governments. The term "general purpose organization" encompasses a variety of independent agencies, including such organizations as: Regional planning councils, councils of governments (COG's), economic development districts, planning district commissions, and regional planning commissions.

Although many States have encouraged the formation and growth of general purpose organizations by delineating sub-State planning areas, the Federal Government has also played a significant role through legislation, funding policies, and administrative regulations. For example, the Department of Housing and Urban Development makes planning money available through provisions of the Housing Act of 1954, as amended. These grants commonly known as "701" funds are specifically intended to encourage comprehensive planning programs on an areawide basis. The Department of Commerce, under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, as amended, is authorized, with the concurrence of the States, to designate Economic Development Districts within multicounty areas to stimulate areawide economic development. Further, the Federal Office of Management and Budget has designated in its circular "A-95" about 465 general purpose organizations as areawide clearinghouses with the power to review and comment on Federal grant applications made by local governments in their areas.

Special Purpose Organizations are engaged in multijurisdictional planning, coordination, and in some cases, delivery of services, in a single functional or problem area such as aging or health. Characteristically, most are created in response to Federal legislation or Federal administrative regulations. Their governing boards are made up primarily of persons outside of government, often the result of a federally imposed requirement that there be substantial representation from the specific population being served. Following are the major special purpose agencies for which data are presented in this report:

1. Community Action Agencies (CAA's)—are the primary mechanism by which the Federal Community Services Administration implements its community action programs. These agencies are charged with mobilizing and channeling community resources into antipoverty action; encouraging the participation of the poor in the planning, conduct, and evaluation of programs; stimulating new and more effective approaches to the solution of poverty problems; and strengthening the planning and coordination of antipoverty programs in the community. They are typically engaged in a variety of projects such as vocational and preschool education, employment, day care, youth development, consumer action, and economic development. Most CAA's are established as private nonprofit incorporations whose governing boards have equal representation from the target population, from local governments, and the private sector as required by Federal regulation. About 150 agencies were excluded from the survey because they were part of a local government or because they served only a single governmental jurisdiction.

2. Area Agencies on Aging (AAA's)— Under the funding provisions of the Older Americans Act of 1965, as amended, States are required to designate planning and service areas for providing services to the aged. Within these service areas, area agencies on aging are established as the operating units. Although the primary mission of AAA's is to plan and coordinate the delivery of services to the aged, some do directly provide services in such areas as nutrition, transportation, and recreation for the aged. Most AAA's, because they are part of a State or local government or a division within a general purpose organization, were excluded from this survey.

3. Health Systems Agencies (HSA's)— are designated by the Governor of each State with the approval of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare in accordance with the Federal Public Health Service Act.

Their primary responsibilities are to provide effective areawide health planning, to promote the development of needed health services, manpower, and facilities, to reduce inefficiencies, and to implement the health plans of the agency. HSA's are required to have a governing body with majority membership composed of health care consumers who are broadly representative of the social, economic, linguistic, and racial population of the area served; the balance of membership includes providers of health care and local elected officials. Most HSA's are established as private nonprofit corporations and were included in the survey.

4. Criminal Justice Planning Agencies— are established by the States to develop, implement, and evaluate regional criminal justice plans. Federal funds, distributed under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, as amended, provide the main source of revenue for these agencies. As with other special purpose organizations, those criminal justice planning agencies that were an integral part of a State or local government or were functional projects within a general purpose planning organization were not surveyed separately.

5. Other special purpose organizations— include eleven water quality management agencies that met the criteria for the survey. Funded primarily by the Environmental Protection Agency, these agencies are responsible for the development of areawide wastewater treatment management plans. In most States, existing general purpose organizations carry out this activity. Also included in this category are regional mental health boards in Connecticut and alcoholism authorities in Texas that were found to be organizations unique to these two States. The Metropolitan Transportation Commission in California was also included as the only special purpose organization in this functional category that met the survey criteria.

The table below shows, for selected agencies, some of the different administrative arrangements that have been developed to carry out their activities.

| Type of organization | Activity carried out by— | | |

Note: Data will not add to totals found in Federal agency directories because no attempt was made to categorize survey nonrespondents, unusable responses, or other kinds of organizations such as those with Statewide jurisdiction or jurisdictions that coincide with a single local government.

Survey Response and Data Highlights

A total of 1,932 agencies were canvassed, and usable responses received for 1,569 or 81.2%. Table A, below, shows response rates for each type of organization and by specific areas of inquiry. Further detail on the subcategories comprising each major area listed in table A is available in appendix A which illustrates the three questionnaires used in the survey.

Data Highlights

Following is a nationwide summary of the responses received to each major survey item and, where appropriate, a description of technical considerations that must be taken into account in interpreting these results. Because there are significant differences (mostly related to the respective roles of Federal, State, and local governments) in the composition and activities of general versus special purpose regional organizations, their responses are frequently discussed separately.

Year of establishment—Responses to this question clearly indicate that the organizations surveyed are recent creations, with 91 percent of them coming into existence after 1964. A distribution by type shows that 85 percent of general purpose and 95 percent of special purpose organizations were established after this date. The "newest" organizations were the Area Agencies on Aging, 99 percent of which were established in the 1970's, and the Health Systems Agencies, of which 75 percent reported being established in 1975 or later. However, it must be kept in mind that the survey questionnaire requested an establishment date based on the organization's present method of constitution. For example, local regional health planning was formerly done by Comprehensive Health Planning agencies (CHP's), which were phased out under 1975 amendments to Federal legislation and replaced by HSA's. Therefore, some HSA's reporting that they were established after 1975 could have existed earlier as comprehensive health planning organizations.

Method of establishment—Tabulation of the responses to this question revealed different methods of establishment for general purpose and special purpose regional organizations. Of the 1,567 organizations responding to the question, 818 reported that they were established under private nonprofit incorporation statutes; of these, 95 percent were special purpose organizations. Conversely, eighty-two percent of the general purpose organizations reported that they were established under specific State or local authorization (enabling legislation, executive order, or voluntary agreements). Only 9 percent of special purpose organizations reported these methods. The responses of some 170 organizations were tallied into an "other" category with many of the special purpose organizations included in this category because they reported particular Federal laws authorizing or requiring their establishment.

Composition of governing body--As with methods of establishment, there are clear differences between general purpose and special purpose regional organizations in the makeup of their governing boards. The major difference is in the extent of representation by local government officials. For general purpose organizations, approximately 68 percent of the members on governing boards were elected or appointed officials of local governments. For special purpose organizations, sixty-two percent of the governing bodies were comprised of citizens representing target populations and other kinds of nongovernmental representatives, a concentration which probably reflects Federal requirements for target group representation and representation of agencies, professions etc., that provide services pertinent to the role of the particular organization.

Method of local government funding--This item also pointed to some fundamental differences in the relationship that general and special purpose regional organizations have with local governments. Seventy-three percent of the general purpose organizations reported methods of funding which would indicate continuing local government financial support, while less than 3 percent indicated no assistance at all. Only 9 percent of special purpose organizations reported such methods and 26 percent reported no local contributions at all. Also illustrating the different funding relationship is the fact that 12.3 percent of general purpose organization revenue came from local governments, while for special purpose organizations this amount was only 2.1 percent of their revenues. Many special purpose organizations did report local government financial support of a voluntary nature, or "in kind" contributions such as office space, utilities, telephone service, etc., or through the matching of Federal or State grants.

Employment and payroll--Response to this item indicated that regional organizations employed 147,852 persons in July, 1977. Of this total 83,380 were employed full-time and 64,472 part-time. The July 1977 monthly payroll for these employees totaled $66.0 million which yields an average monthly wage of $599 for full-time employees and $251 for part-time employees. Community Action Agencies accounted for 81 percent of the total reported employment and 70 percent of the total payroll.

There are two factors that must be taken into account in utilizing the employment and payroll data. They relate to the time period for reporting (the summer month of July) and the definition applied in determining full-time employment.

Reports received from many of the Community Action Agencies illustrate the effect of the July period. Many CAA's operate a Head Start Program - a pre-school education program - which is not staffed during the summer months; hence these regular employees were not included in their reports. These same agencies, however, reported large numbers of persons temporarily employed under several Federal summer employment programs and various titles of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. The exclusion of employees working in the Headstart program and the inclusion of temporary summer employees as full time, many of whom are probably earning at or close to the minimum wage, prevents any conclusions regarding typical employment size or typical earnings.

Revenue and expenditures--The total revenue reported by regional organizations for their fiscal year 1977 was $1.3 billion. The bulk of this amount received by Community Action Agencies which reported $798 million (60 percent) and by general purpose organization which reported $372.3 million (28 percent). The major source of revenue is the Federal Government which accounted for 87 percent of all revenues. For general purpose organizations, Federal revenues constituted 76 percent of receipts while State and local governments contributed 22 percent. For special purpose organizations, Federal support amounted to 69 percent while State and local government assistance accounted for only 6 percent.

Fiscal 1977 expenditures of region organizations totaled $1.3 billion, most of which was accounted for by Community Action Agencies (59 percent) - by general purpose organizations (21 percent).

A classification of expenditures by broad programs shows that most expenditures (79 percent) were related to human resources planning and service delivery, with the bulk of these expenditures (87 percent) made by special purpose organizations (all expenditures of CAA's, AAA's, and HSA's were classed as human resources). A distribution of the expenditures of general purpose organizations by program area shows 35.4 percent for human resources, 15.8 percent for economic and community development, 15.7 percent for environmental control, 13.0 percent for transportation, 11.0 percent for land use and conservation, and 8.2 percent for miscellaneous activities classified as "other."

Survey Procedures and Methodology

Survey planning

Planning for this survey began in the spring of 1976. Overall planning efforts were directed toward identifying the various kinds of local regional organizations, determining those common criteria which would make a regional organization appropriate for survey, and developing name and address listings for each organization to be surveyed. The accomplishment of these goals involved research and contact with officials at the Federal, State, and local governmental levels. Following is a description of the major planning and research elements.

Federal laws and the Catalogue of Domestic Assistance, published by the Office of Management and Budget, were used to identify Federal agencies and/or programs which provided financial or other assistance to regional organizations. Each agency identified was then contacted for the purpose of discussing the planned survey, to obtain further descriptions of the type of organizations they fund, and to obtain directories they had available. In addition, as part of the directory phase of the Census Bureau's 1977 Census of Governments each county, city, and town in the United States was requested to provide the name of regional organizations to which they belonged. The findings from this canvass were integrated with the information in the directories obtained and a listing of organizations in each State constructed. Simultaneously, research of State laws related to regional organizations was undertaken. The results of this research, a description of the concepts used in developing the agency listings for each State, and the actual listings were then submitted to an official in each of the States for review and comment.

The final major planning operation was the conduct of a test survey among the various types of regional organizations identified. This procedure served to refine questionnaire items, to determine agencies appropriate for the full scale survey, and to test related survey procedures.

Survey methodology

The data in this report are based on a direct summary of responses from 1,569 organizations, 81.2 percent of all organizations canvassed. No attempt was made to estimate data for those organizations which did not reply.

The survey was conducted primarily by mail and returns were generally accepted as reliable. However, to reduce reporting errors which can result from a misunderstanding of definitions and instructions, or from inaccurate records used in reporting, each return was carefully reviewed by Census personnel for completeness, internal consistency, and reasonableness. Questionable responses were then verified by direct contact with the respondent either by mail or telephone - usually telephone. Further, to reduce errors which could be introduced during clerical processing operations, the data were subjected to computer editing at various stages of processing.

Definitions of Selected Terms and Technical Concepts

Listed below are selected terms applied in the conduct of the survey and technical concepts used in developing presentations contained in this report:

Selected terms

Counties—For general purpose organizations this term encompasses county governments that were "members" of the organization, while for special purpose organizations it covers county governments located in the organization's service area.

Employment and Payroll—For purposes of the survey, employees were defined as persons who were on the organization's payroll during the pay period which included July 15, 1977. Excluded are contractors and their employees, volunteers, or persons on loan from governments or other organizations. Included are all persons who were paid directly by a reporting organization regardless of their place of work, e.g., CETA enrollees actually working in a local government but paid by a surveyed organization.

Full-time employees—Persons employed to work the number of hours that represent regular full-time employment, including any temporary employees who worked full-time during the survey pay period.

Part-time employees—Persons employed to work less than the number of hours that represent full-time employment.

Payroll—Gross payroll including salaries, wages, fees, and commissions earned by employees during the month of July 1977, before deductions for taxes, employee contributions to health insurance, retirement systems, etc.

Fiscal Year. The 12 month organizational accounting period which ended during the period July 1, 1976 through June 30, 1977.

Expenditure. For purposes of the survey, expenditure was defined as amounts spent in fiscal year 1977 from all sources including amounts received from Federal, State, and local governments. Excluded are any amounts attributed to payments "in kind." Expenditures are classified by type and purpose:

Expenditure by type

Current operations—Expenditure for compensation of officials and employees and for purchase of supplies, materials, services, etc.

Capital outlay—Expenditure for construction and purchase of buildings, land, and equipment.

Transfer payments—Payments to local governments only.

Expenditure by purpose

Land use and conservation—Programs related to zoning, open space, recreation, coastal zone management, land development and use, soil conservation, energy conservation, etc.

Environment—Water resource management, water quality control, sewers, solid waste management, air pollution abatement, etc.

Human resources—Social services, income maintenance, manpower, health and education programs, as well as programs for the aged, handicapped, and culturally deprived, etc.

Introduction—Continued

Economic and community development—Programs related to commercial and industrial development, housing and urban renewal, tourism, criminal justice, public safety, etc.

Transportation—Programs related to highways, mass transit, air and water transportation, parking facilities, etc.

Other—All programs not specifically falling in one of the above categories. Includes the development of generalized comprehensive planning statements, general data collection, information system development, etc.

Revenue. All amounts of money received during fiscal year 1977, excluding any dollar values attributable to "in kind" receipts.

Federal revenue—All money received from the Federal Government including identifiable Federal grants received through State or local governments.

State revenue—All money received from State governments except amounts identified as Federal funds.

Local government revenue—All money received from local governments except amounts identified as Federal funds.

Other revenue—Nongovernmental receipts from charges, fees, donations, etc.

Policy-Making Board. The body of officials of a regional organization who have the power to vote on policy matters.

Target Population. The specific segment of the population the organization was created to serve. The only organizations to which this term relates are Community Action and Aging Agencies.

Technical concepts affecting tabulations

Counties Served. In developing the tabulations for this data line in tables 1, 2, and 6, county governments that were reported by more than one organization of the same type (e.g., two general purpose organizations, two Health Systems Agencies) were counted only once.

County Members. In table 9, which presents data only for general purpose organizations, the data line "county members" includes county governments more than once if they belong to more than one organization.

Interstate Organizations. For organizations which crossed State lines, counties were tabulated in the State where they are located. However, the population(s) served are tabulated in the State where the organization is located. Appendix B is a listing of such organizations and the location of counties served.

A-95 Organizations. As used in table 9, this term refers to organizations which have been assigned the authority under Circular A-95 of the Federal Office of Management and Budget to review and comment on Federal grant applications within their areas. The Census Bureau's tabulations are based on a listing of designated agencies published in the Federal Register on January 10, 1977.

FROM THE DIRECTOR
BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

Every 5 years the Bureau of the Census (under title 13, section 161, United States Code) conducts a census of all governments in the United States. As part of the 1977 Census of Governments, we are conducting a special survey to provide information on the structure, activities, employment, and financial transactions of sub-State regional organizations.

Your agency has been identified as one which appears to fall within the scope of this special study. Would you please take the time to review the items on this form and provide the data requested? While participation in this survey is voluntary, the cooperation of all respondents is essential if we are to accurately depict the characteristics of the various regional organizations throughout the United States. A reply within 2 weeks would be especially helpful.

For your convenience we have enclosed a preaddressed envelope and an extra copy of the form for your files. If you have any problems or questions regarding this survey, please call David Nikkel collect on (301) 763-5094.

Sincerely,

MANUEL D. PLOTKIN

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

Every 5 years the Bureau of the Census (under title 13, section 161, United States Code) conducts a census of all governments in the United States. As part of the 1977 Census of Governments, we are conducting a special survey to provide information on the structure, activities, employment, and financial transactions of sub-State regional organizations.

Your agency has been identified as one which appears to fall within the scope of this special study. Would you please take the time to review the items on this form and provide the data requested? While participation in this survey is voluntary, the cooperation of all respondents is essential if we are to accurately depict the characteristics of the various regional organizations throughout the United States. A reply within 2 weeks would be especially helpful.

For your convenience we have enclosed a preaddressed envelope and an extra copy of the form for your files. If you have any problems or questions regarding this survey, please call David Nikkel collect on (301) 763-5094.

Sincerely,
